

Marcus Orlovsky— A brief overview

International TEDx speaker and host, education leader, innovator and sought after contributor to corporate and youth conferences

Graduating from Bristol University, Marcus began his career qualifying as a chartered accountant. He then joined EY where he quickly developed a reputation for being a “fixer” and was successful in driving greater efficiency in a number of roles including that of Director of Recruitment. He later sat on a taskforce for the merger between Arthur Young and Ernst & Whinney, giving rise to Ernst & Young.

Entering the world of real estate, he was part of a small team that transformed London’s commercial centre including Broadgate, Ludgate and Stockley Park, borrowing over £6Bn.

A series of successful entrepreneurial ventures followed including; accelerating a small tech company’s growth from a staff of 2 people to over 120 and bringing “Lazy Town” - the internationally renowned children’s programme, from Iceland to the UK.

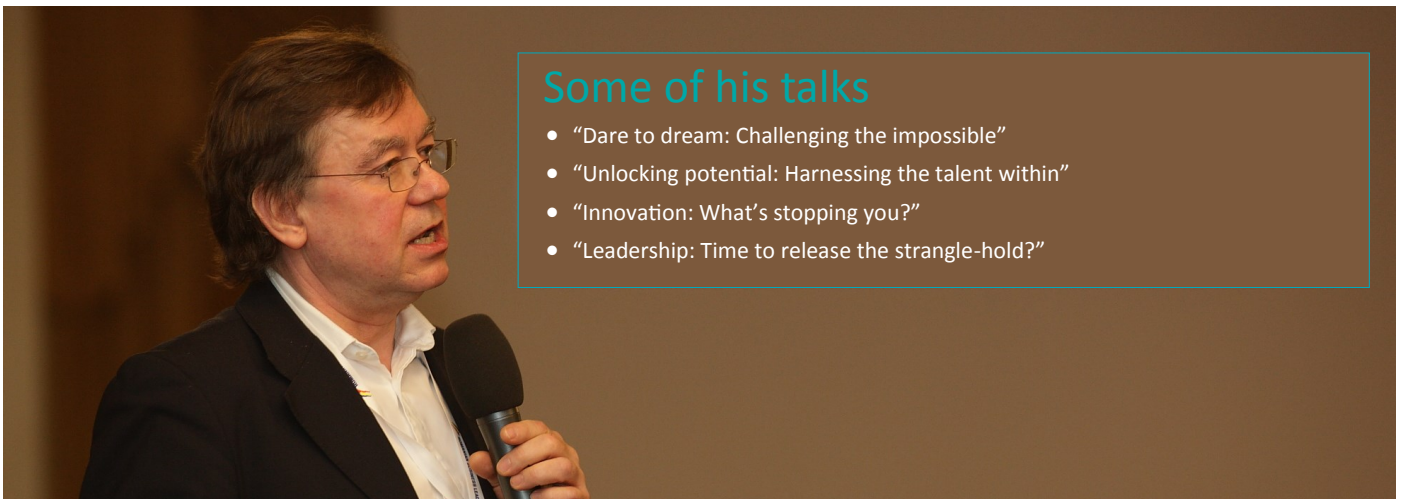

Marcus is passionate about creating better opportunities for young people and transforming aspirations and achievement, largely driven by challenges he has had to overcome in his own life. This led to him founding Bryanston Square, bringing together a team of dedicated individuals to assist in bidding for highly competitive public procurement school projects. The team were successful in winning 41 out of 46 projects with a value in excess of £5Bn. Since 2007, Bryanston Square’s focus has been developing students and teachers, enhancing learning spaces and leading change in education.

From addressing 300 Yr 11 students, 900 Googlers or 1,200 TEDxers, Marcus has an engaging and thought provoking style of delivery, which inspires audiences to grasp opportunities and take on the impossible.

Some of his talks

- “Dare to dream: Challenging the impossible”
- “Unlocking potential: Harnessing the talent within”
- “Innovation: What’s stopping you?”
- “Leadership: Time to release the strangle-hold?”

Testimonials

“Marcus, I need to tell you that you were one of the greatest ever in my life, all Googlers were extremely pleased with your performance. CEE people would just never say brilliant to anything...and yet you were rated 4.85 [out of 5], which is unimaginable in this region. So again, you were brilliant and I am so thankful for that and also to get to know you, it was a real pleasure.” Country Manager, Google, June 2014

“Everyone in the event business knows that a good host brings 50 (if not more) percent of the success to an event, and, I can speak on behalf of an entire team, we can’t imagine the better person to host a TEDx Vilnius than Marcus.” TEDx Organiser, Lithuania, May 2015

Recent keynotes include:

Marcus Orlovsky— Some of his talks

Innovation: What's stopping you?

Did you know...Marcus was able to save a local authority £40 million across the build of 4 new schools through simply taking an innovative approach to architecture, procurement and design

Marcus will inspire audiences to:

- Look for ways to apply innovative thinking to a situation
- Re-think how they achieve value for money
- Lead others out of their comfort zone

Leadership: Time to release the strangle-hold

Did you know...Marcus has led teams ranging from 2 to 1000 individuals during his career and puts success down to a combination of management being tight enough to succeed and loose enough to allow for improvement and innovation

Marcus will inspire audiences to:

- Consider the optimum leadership required for innovation to thrive
- Evaluate the controls and balances around them
- Give talent space to grow

Dare to Dream: Challenging the impossible

Did you know...in September 2014 Marcus suffered a brain haemorrhage and was told it would take a year to recover. However, a mere 20 days later he successfully delivered the opening keynote at the National Association of Head Teacher's conference

Marcus will inspire audiences to:

- Be more resilient when times get tough
- Challenge what's possible
- Break down barriers to success

Unlocking potential: Harnessing the talent within

Did you know...Bryanston Square has directly helped over 600 disengaged students re-build their confidence, develop the tools to succeed and go on to positively impact over 3,500 of their peers over the last 4 years

Marcus will inspire audiences to:

- Engage the dis-engaged
- Empower others to achieve more
- Re-consider their definition of "talent"

"Absolutely fantastic, interesting and engaging talk. It would be good if all presenters were as engaging" AGR conference delegates

"Marcus Orlovsky, the morning's keynote speaker, is possibly one of the most extraordinary individuals to grace a conference floor."

Susan Young, NAHT

Recent Keynotes include:

