

Marcus Orlovsky

Education leader, international TEDx speaker and host, innovator and sought after contributor to corporate and youth conferences

Graduating from Bristol University, Marcus began his career qualifying as a chartered accountant. He then joined EY where he quickly developed a reputation for driving change through innovation in a number of roles including that of Director of Recruitment.

Entering the world of real estate, he was part of a small team that transformed London's commercial centre, borrowing over £6Bn.

Marcus is passionate about creating better opportunities for young people and transforming aspirations and achievement, largely driven by challenges he has had to overcome in his own life. This led to him founding Bryanston Square, bringing together a team of dedicated individuals to assist in bidding for highly competitive public procurement school projects. The team were successful in winning 41 out of 46 projects with a value in excess of £5Bn. Since 2007, Bryanston Square's focus has been developing students and teachers, enhancing learning spaces and leading change in education.

Marcus and his team have a track record of delivering training to more than 7,000 teachers and development programmes, that as of 2015, directly helped 600 students. These students were then empowered to lead their own sessions, positively impacting a further 3,500 of their peers.

From addressing 300 Yr 11 students, 900 Googlers or 1,200 TEDxers, Marcus has an engaging and thought provoking style of delivery, which inspires audiences to grasp opportunities and take on the impossible.

Testimonials

"In short; it was inspirational. We have had lots of motivational speakers in to the academy and Marcus was the best. His humility was extremely impressive, as was his exceptional CV. His message of never settling for people telling you something can't be done was very powerful, and all of my students (and me) were left speechless at the end." Head of 6th Form, Central London

"The speech was essential for raising aspirations and unlocking the box – it was an incredibly powerful keynote. It also wasn't formal, and in schools we tend to focus a lot on the HOW of attainment, but we sometimes forget about the WHY. The WHY is different for each child, and Marcus really enables that self-reflective analysis that gets kids to think about different opportunities. It will make a difference in their lives." Head of secondary school, Nottinghamshire

Dare to Dream: Challenging the impossible

Did you know...in September 2014 Marcus suffered a brain haemorrhage and was told it would take a year to recover. However, a mere 20 days later he successfully delivered the opening keynote at the National Association of Head Teacher's conference

Marcus will inspire audiences to:

- Be more resilient when times get tough
- Challenge what's possible
- Break down barriers to success

Unlocking potential: Harnessing the talent within

Did you know...Bryanston Square has directly helped over 600 disengaged students re-build their confidence, develop the tools to succeed and go on to positively impact over 3,500 of their peers over the last 4 years

Marcus will inspire audiences to:

- Engage the dis-engaged
- Empower others to achieve more
- Re-consider their definition of "talent"

Enhancing spaces: Making the learning experience fit for the future

Did you know...Marcus was able to save a local authority £40 million across the build of 4 new schools through simply taking an innovative approach to architecture, procurement and design

Marcus will inspire audiences to:

- Achieve value for money with a simple procurement process
- Set and maintain a vision
- Consider the impact of the learning environment on preparing students for the workplace

Monetisation: The Business of Education

Did you know...Marcus has provided consultancy to over 600 schools over Bryanston Square's 15 year existence to drive change in education

Marcus will inspire audiences to:

- Get to the root cause of the funding issue
- Apply a new strategy for delivery
- Manage cash flows more efficiently

"A quality speaker who had me on the edge of my seat for the whole three hours." Headteacher, Dorset

"Marcus Orlovsky, the morning's keynote speaker, is possibly one of the most extraordinary individuals to grace a conference floor."
